

Typhus Deaths in Chortitza, Chortitza Mennonite Settlement, South Russia November 1919 to March 1920

Extracted from the Mennonitische Rundschau 19 July 1922

By Glenn H Penner (gpenner@uoguelph.ca)

Pages 4 and 5 of the July 19, 1922 issue of the Mennonitische Rundschau contain a list (author unknown) of those in the village of Chortitza in the Old Colony who died of typhus. For more on the typhus epidemic see the GAMEO article or the description of David G. Rempel's personal experiences (David G. Rempel & Cornelia Rempel Carlson, A Mennonite Family in Tsarist Russia and the Soviet Union, Chapter 27). The list contains a total of 153 persons. At the end of the list the author mentions that before the epidemic the population of Chortitza was 676. This means that 23%, or nearly a quarter of the entire population, died in less than a year. A table in the GAMEO article on Typhus indicates that during the same time period 94 out of 894 (10.5%, or about one in nine) died.

Note that the column RIN is just an identification number I have added. Note also that the GRANDMA (GM) database numbers can change with time and I take no responsibility for incorrect GRANDMA numbers in this table.
